MEMORANDUM
February 5, 1985

To: Frank Monahan and Tom Eaton
From: Bill Yake BY
Subject: Most Western Laundry: Project Assessment

Several months ago we were informally requested to consider the possibility of conducting survey work to further define the impacts of solvents generated by Most Western Laundry, Hoquiam. Art Johnson has reviewed and evaluated the available data, and his assessment is attached. Based on this assessment, it currently appears that the likelihood of identifying measurable impacts on the Hoquiam River are low. Art suggests that collection of samples at five sites would clarify the advisability of proceeding with a more detailed survey.

Given the limited scope and resources required for this initial sampling, this work might best be conducted by Southwest Regional Office staff. After results are available, mutual review will allow us to decide if further work should proceed.

Does this seem to you to be the most reasonable way to proceed?
